Friday, September 15. 1704.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Sept. 2.

Leiden, September 2.

Letters from Suza of the 19th of last Month advise, that the Duke de la Feuillade had augmented the Garrison of that Place to 2500 Men, and order'd 3000 more to march into France; And that it was reported they would soon be follow'd by a great Detachment from the Army under the Duke of Vendome.

'Tis advis'd from Montmeillan, in Letters of the 19th of August likewise, that the French abandon'd the Blockade of that Place, and march'd off with great Precipitation the 18th in the Night: As also, that they have withdrawn all the Troops they had in Garrison in the little Towns and Coasts of the Chablais.

These Letters from Suza and Montmeillan add, that they were ignorant of the Reason of these Motions of the French; but 'tis very probable they had Advice so early of the Defeat of their Army on the Danube; and that the Remains of that Army were retiring to the Black Forrest to joyn the Marshal de Villeroy.

From the Rotterdam Gazette, dated Sept. 8.

Milan, August 26. The Duke of Vendome, who is march'd to lay Siege to Ivrea, has order'd a certain number of Men of the Militia of this State to be rais'd, to supply the Rooms of 10000 of his Soldiers that are Sick, and also to guard the Posts that cover the Vercellois, because, (as 'tis reported,) four of the Swiss Cantons have declar'd for the Duke of Savoy. A Convoy of 300 Waggon's loaded with Ammunition and Provisions, going from the District of Novara to that of Vercelli, under a Guard of Horse and Foot; were met by a Party of Imperial Hussars, who attack'd the Guard, took some of them Prisoners, and dispers'd the rest, and carried off 100 of the said Waggon's.

From the Paris Gazette, dated August 30.

Versailles, August 29. The 26th of this Month, the Pope's Nuncio extraordinary, and his Nuncio in Ordinary, had Audience of the King; being conducted by the Sieur de Saintot Introducer of Ambassadors. They acquainted his Majesty that the Duke of Modena has written a Letter to the Pope, in which he assures his Holiness that he never had any Intention to acknowledge the Arch-Duke Charles for King of Spain; and that what was done by his Envoy at Vienna was without his Knowledge, and absolutely contrary to his Orders. The same day, Signior Lorenzo Tiepolo, Ambassador from the Republick of Venice, being introduc'd by the Sieur de Saintot, complimented the King, the Duke of Burgundy, and the Dutchess of Burgundy, in the Name of the Republick, on the Birth of the Duke of Britany.

Portsmouth, Sept. 13. This Morning came to Spithead Admiral Whetstone on board Her Majesty's Ship the Hampshire, and in his company the Falkland, New-Castle, and Litchfield; And just now came to Spithead the Triton, Captain Trevors Commander; who brings the good News of Sir George Rooke's beating the French Fleet, he left them off Cape St. Vincent; which is all I can learn at present.

London, Sept. 15. We cannot undertake to give the Particulars of the Defeat of the French Fleet commanded by the Count de Thoulouse, by Sir George Rooke with the Fleet he commands. But in general we are inform'd, that the 12th of August the two Fleets came in fight of each other between Malaga and Gibraltar; the 13th about 9 in the Morning they engag'd; the Fight lasted, with great Fury on both sides, till 7 in the Evening; when the French fled: Sir George Rooke pursued them three days, and then gave over the Chace. Of the French four Men of War and two Gallies were sunk in the Action and Pursuit. Not one of our Ships is lost. Sir Andrew Lake and other Captains are kill'd. Capt. Jumper and some others are wounded. The Triton, Captain Trevor Commander, was dispatch'd with this News from the Fleet off Cape St. Vincent the 27th of August. A Dutch Man of War blew up by Accident, after the Engagement. The Number of Men of War was equal on both sides; but the French had beside between 20 and 30 Gallies. About 2000 of the English were either kill'd or wounded; and between 4 and 500 Dutch. The Enemy were favour'd in their Flight by hazy Weather. And their Gallies were not a little serviceable to them in towing off their disabled Ships.
a little

Last Night the Tower Guns were fir'd for this welcome News; and Rejoycings were made, with Bonfires, Illuminations, Ringing of Bells, &c.
